Can I Buy Google Voice Number?

Yes, you can buy a Google Voice number. You first need to create a Google Voice account and then select the option to get a new number. Once you have chosen your desired area code, the next step is to choose a phone number from those available in that area code.

After selecting your preferred number and verifying it with your existing mobile device or landline, you will be able to use the Google Voice service with this new number.

How Much is a Google Voice Number?

A Google Voice number is free to set up and use, however it does require a US-based phone number in order to activate. Once you have activated your Google Voice account, the cost of using the service will depend on what features you choose to add such as voicemail transcription or international calling rates. For example, if you are using just the basic features of Google Voice then there is no additional cost beyond setting up your account.

However, if you choose to add extra services like voicemail transcription or international calling plans then these may incur an additional fee.

Where is Google Voice Offered?

Google Voice is offered in the United States and Canada. It's a free service that allows users to make phone calls, send text messages, and receive voicemails over Wi-Fi or data connections. Google Voice also offers features such as call screening, call forwarding, conference calling, and voice mail transcription.

It can be used with an Android device or through a web browser on any computer. Users must have a U.S.-based Google account to use Google Voice services in either country.
